CCLI Song # 6185299

1 You found me, the beggar, when I had nothing but shame.
You saw me, the filthy, and drew me, calling my name.
You lifted my eyes to see the myst'ry of
Your captivated gaze.
Why would you love me?

2 You came as a beggar when You had nothing but fame.
Abandoned and filthy, You suffered, bearing my blame.
You died so that I could see the depths to which
You'd go to rescue me
And prove that You love me.

C Chorus:
You make me beautiful and delight in me;
Clothed in Your righteousness I will ever be.
Every idol will flee when Your beauty I see
So astonish me with Your love.

3 Now I am your treasure and in You my soul will hide.
I see You, the lovely, awaiting Your spotless bride.
And when I look back and see my ugliness,
Catch my doubting, fearful gaze
And tell me you love me.
